

Supply Chain Risk Management

The Panda, reliant on a high risk bamboo diet and habitat, is associated with “evolutionary dead end” and “extinction”.

Let's face it; today Pandas survive because they are darn cute!

Organisations with poor supply chain risk management are the pandas of business; they face potential extinction!

Karza can help reduce supply chain vulnerability by clearly identifying and analysing the risk associated with potential supply chain failure points. We can assist you generate sound mitigation plans to better manage your risks and to ensure supply chain continuity.

Don't become the next panda! *You may not be as cute!
