

How well do you manage risk?

Engaging a contractor with a third party certified management system does not guarantee your construction site risks will be managed effectively and does not reduce your obligations. Too often organisations engage 'certified' contractors then drop their guard. Only good contractor management will ensure your construction risks are being adequately controlled.

contact.us@karza.com.au